Imagine - Changing the way you think and interact with others, through playing with horses! Fun, Unique and Impactful!

Leadership begins with leading ourselves - in our everyday lives, in our self-awareness about how we communicate and interact with others. As you spend time interacting with our horses in a safe and fun environment, they will let you know if you are communicating clear purpose, if you believe in yourself, if you are confident. The horses will help you to develop awareness and confidence, and lead you to approaching communication and relationships in a whole new way.

Bridging cultures in a safe and effective way requires awareness of five key principles, which will be revealed to you through guided experiential activities. With horses as your guides, these five key principles will come to light in a fun and energetic way. Your experiences will create a positive change in the way that you behave and exchange information within any cultural context.
